SWAGGER.

From times beyond which the memory of man does not run, swagger has existed.—The satirists of all centuries have lashed it, and the moralists of all centuries have preached it down. But it has remained an abiding characteristic of humanity; altering, indeed, sometimes its force and sometimes its direction, but never losing its influence, though frequently changing its name.

Perhaps the first thing to be said about it is that it is based on vulgarity. It contains in it the very essence of vulgarity—assumption and falseness. It aims to be thought what it knows it is not, and puts on a disguise to effect its end. There is a fine picture in the National Gallery by Paul Veronese. Alexander has conquered the Persians, and the family of Darius come forth to prostrate themselves before the victor. One of the Emperor's generals—a young man—is so magnificently dressed, and has so much swagger about him, that the poor frightened Queen mistakes him for his master, and throws herself at his feet. Alexander, in the background, looks on, a little perplexed and a little amused. The swagger of those times was more demonstrative than the swagger of these. It was more aggressive, and crowed with a lustier note. The Greeks drew a little map of Greece with their own little mulberry-shaped peninsula in the center, and called its inhabitants Hellenes, and the rest of humanity barbarians. The Romans, when they conquered an army, marched all its soldiers under a yoke to emphasize their inferiority and the greatness of Rome. The contrast between the humility expressed in the language and the arrogance employed in the execution of a papal decree has given to the word "bull" a peculiar significance which it still enjoys.

Austria took as its motto the letters A. E. I. O. U., the initials of five Latin words which signify that Austria was to exercise Imperial sway over the whole world.—Louis XIV., when he was ravaging the Palatinate with wars so cruel, so unprovoked, so unrelentless, so iniquitous, styled himself in every State paper which emanated from his Cabinet at Versailles, "that most Christian King." An impartial critic cannot honestly omit England from a list of instances of vulgar vaunting, which commence with the earliest times, and include the most civilized countries. Any one who looks at a guinea of George III. reign will find the fleur de lys quartered on the royal arms. What is this but swagger; an ignoble boast without faith and without foundation? For years we exacted from other ships that they should salute our flag on the seas. The Dutch fought us on the point, but in 1673, after many an engagement, they had to give in. Louis XIV. claimed the same right over the Spaniards, and his Admirals enforced it.

Charles James Fox was a great statesman, who made the influence of England felt all oeer the Continent. Such a man was remarkable even in an age when photography had not given to little men the comfort of cheap popularity. But, apart from his mental qualities, Fox was a remarkable man. Gesture, stature and appearance alike arrested the attention of those who met him. He and Sir Benjamin West—the feeblest of all our English artists—were together for a few days in Paris. West kept a diary of his visit. "I have noticed," he says in that journal, "that when Fox and I walked together in the street, the passers-by turned around and looked at us; this shows how highly art is appreciated in France." It would have been cruel to interfere with vanity so genuine, so trusting, so unfounded. Poor West's belief that the motive of the French in staring at the burly English Premier was a form of tribute to his own art is a delightful instance of pure, unadulterated conceit. There is certainly no swagger in it.—London Globe.

THE BOTTOM OF A WELL.—Did you ever see the bottom of a well? When a well is partly full of water, it is a difficult matter, but it can be done, and we will tell how to do it. With ordinary wells it ought to be done often. Illness which the doctors attribute to "miasm" or "malaria" may come from a dead toad or rat in the well. At morning or evening take a common looking-glass, not less than a foot square, and turn the slanting rays of the rising and setting sun down into the well. This will illuminate its very depths, making it possible to see the smallest pebbles, leaves, etc. Should foreign articles be discovered, they can generally be taken out by a person descending by means of a ladder and using a rake, scoop, or something of the kind—the mirror being held by another person, and still lending its aid.

A writer credits Tom Corwin with having replied, when asked what the inquirer should do to become great: "Young man, be serious. If I had been serious, I might have been President; but now I am nobody but Corwin." The reply was more forcible as Corwin actually made it: "Be a solemn ass—be a solemn ass. The world applauds the ring-master, and laughs at the clown."

When a married woman buys a pug dog for a low price she gets a bargain, and her husband something to boot.

Much as a monkey surpasses a man in agility, he cannot run up bills as easily.

MARRIAGE IN GERMANY.

In Germany the family of the bride supplies all the household requisites, and furnishes the entire house, with the exception of the study, which is left to the bridegroom. Now, as there are many fathers and mothers in this country with marriageable daughters, who often complain that young men of the present day are not ready enough to give up their snug bachelor quarters, and try the sweets of matrimony, it might be well for them as an experiment, to adopt this German custom, and provide their sons-in-law with not only a bride, but a furnished house as well.

If some of the German rules with reference to betrothals and marriages were adopted in this country, many a gay Lothario would have far less opportunities of flirting with other girls in the absence of their inamorata than he now has, because the young ladies would know he was engaged, for every betrothal in Germany is published in the papers, and cards with the names of the engaged couple are sent to all the friends of both families; and as it is also the custom of husband and wife to wear wedding rings, a German cannot so easily pass as a bachelor at a moment's notice as with us. The rule about publishing the engagement in the newspapers is strictly observed.

The Polterabend—a reception given by the bride and bridegroom to their relatives and friends on the eve of their wedding day—is an occasion of great mirth. The happy couple, seated side by side upon an impromptu throne, listen to certain plays and charades performed by their acquaintances, who have for weeks past been engaged in selecting characters and rehearsing their several parts, and many sly allusions are made, under cover of the performance, to former admirers of the bride, or to incidents in the past life of the bridegroom, which give rise to considerable merriment. The writer was present at one about three years since, when some friends represented in an admirable manner all the paraphernalia appertaining to an artist. One simulated the paint-box, another the maul-stick, a third the palette, whilst several personated the different colors, and this was done in honor of the bride, who was an artist of no ordinary merit. The programme is generally brought to a close with dancing and music, after which the guests depart to sleep, and prepare for the more important festivities of the following day.

As the wedding breakfast takes place so soon after the Polterabend, and as such a large gathering of friends on two separate occasions is somewhat of a tax upon the resources of the house, it is for the most part customary to hold the latter at a hotel and the former at home, or vice versa.—Harper's Weekly.

An extremely curious flower has been recently described by an eye-witness at Constantinople, at which place it is said that the vegetable treasures of the eastern world were first collected. This flower belongs to the Narcissus kind of bulbs. There were three naked flowers on the stalk, hanging on one side. The underneath one was fading, but the other two were in all their beauty. They represented a perfect and lifelike humming-bird. The leaves of bright emerald green are a complete copy of the bird, and the throat, head, beak, and wings are a most perfect imitation. The hinder part of the body and the two outstretched wings, are bright rose color; and the under part of the flower is of a deep brown tint, in the form of a two-winged gad-fly, and here the seeds are found.

A patent medicine advertisement reads thus: "When a lethargic feeling pervades your system; when you have disinclination to move about; when you have an abhorrence to exercise, your liver is inactive."—This will be glad tidings to many people who have always thought they were lazy when they felt that way. Now they will know that it was only their liver that was inactive.

It now appears from recent observations, says an exchange, that the pathological condition of tetanus consists in a hyperæmia of the neurilemma surrounding the notocord, not discoverable in the necropsy. We have frequently warned girls against this dreadful thing, but all to no purpose. They still persist in wearing them colored.

Every lady of station in Austria knows how to cook. They do not learn the art at regular cooking clubs, or at home, but they go to the house of a prince or rich banker where there is a famous chef, and learn from him.

"Don't sit so far away from me, Harry, dear," she said to her lover, as they were steaming up the river with the excursion; "don't sit so far away, and turn your back to me in that way; people will think we are married."

Neglect no woman merely because she is plain-looking; for beauty is to woman but what saltpetre is to beef—it gives to it a fine appearance; but it imparts to it no relish.

We meet in society many attractive and beautiful women whom we think would make excellent wives—for our friends.

To make a maltese cross—Tread on her tail.

LUCRETIA MOTT.

But neither a mob of arms or of tongues could daunt these women. In 1838, Mrs. Mott presided over a Woman's Anti-Slavery Convention in Philadelphia. The mob surged about the building, threatening every moment to overwhelm them. In spite of the commotion outside, and the shattering of window-panes, Mrs. Mott succeeded in holding the convention to its work, and brought it to a successful close. That night the hall was burned to the ground, with the connivance of the city authorities. Collyer relates an instance of her tact. One night when a mob was driving the Abolitionists out of a hall, and the moment was one of great peril, Mrs. Mott said to one of the unprotected women:

"Take this friend's arm; he will take care of thee through the crowd."

"And who will protect you, Lucretia?" said the woman.

"This man," she returned, touching the arm of one who was of the mob, "will see me safely through the crowd."

And rough, red-shirted ruffian as he was, there was an American gentleman beneath a rough exterior. He gave her his arm and carried her safely out, protecting her life like a good "white knight."

As before mentioned, Mrs. Mott was a delegate to the World's Anti-Slavery Convention held in London in 1840. The leaders of the anti-slavery cause in England had invited all the nations to send delegates to this convention; but when the Americans arrived it was found that some of them were women, and the first three days of the convention were spent in discussing whether they should be allowed to take their seats. In England, Elizabeth Herrick's voice had been the first to cry, "Immediate Emancipation!" and Harriet Martineau had written against slavery, but still the eloquence of Wendell Phillips and others in behalf of women was unavailing, and their credentials were refused. William Lloyd Garrison arrived too late to take part in the discussion, and hearing what had happened to his countrywomen, he would not present his credentials, but sat a silent spectator of the proceedings. Henry B. Stanton was one of the delegates, and Elizabeth Cady Stanton, then a bride, accompanied him. Thus, two able women—Lucretia Mott and Elizabeth Cady Stanton—met for the first time. Long afterward Mrs. Stanton was asked what most impressed her in her London visit, and she answered, "Lucretia Mott." * * *

The last meeting over which Mrs. Mott presided was held at Philadelphia on the Fourth of July, 1876. On that day, while the men were celebrating the hundredth birthday of the Nation by reading sonorously from the Declaration of Independence that taxation without representation is tyranny," the woman suffragists assembled in Dr. Furness' church, and held a meeting of protest. Mrs. Mott was then eighty-three years old, but in spite of the intense heat of the day she presided over the meeting for eight hours. It was in this Summer that the writer met Mrs. Mott—a memory that is like a benediction. Her forehead was high and broad, the eyes kindly, and the features delicate. On her mother's side she was a kinswoman of Ben Franklin, to whom her face was thought to bear a likeness. Combe, the phrenologist, said that her's was the finest woman's head he had ever seen. She was small of stature, never in her life weighing over ninety pounds.—At the protest meeting, some one in the audience said that Mrs. Mott could not be seen on the platform, and requested that she should sit in the high pulpit.

"Well, friends," said she, "I am not high-minded, but, like Zaccheus of old, who climbed the tree his Lord to see, I am small of stature, and shall have to go up for thee to see me."

Although growing too old the last few years to be abroad, she still felt an interest in the doings of the busy world. We have heard Mrs. Stanton tell that one day Mrs. Mott had been reading a paper-money tract. Finally, she took off her spectacles, and, turning, said, in her measured way:

"Elizabeth, does thee understand this question?"

At Philadelphia, November 11th, 1880, Mrs. Mott closed her useful life, and passed without fear into the unkown. From ten o'clock until the hour of the funeral, one person after another stood for a moment beside the sleeper, and then passed on with noiseless footsteps. She was buried in a quiet Quaker grave-yard where the unpretentious head-stones scarcely show above the green grass. It is said that a thousand people gathered about the open grave, there being a noticeable number of colored people in the throng.—Californian for April.

He was making a call, and they were talking of literature. "The Pilgrim's Progress," she remarked, "always seems to me painful. Of course you are familiar with Bunyan?" He said he had one on each foot, and they bothered him a good deal."

In England young gentlemen speak of their fathers as "the governor," "pater," "the overseer," etc. In this country they say "dad," "the boss," or "the old man." In heathen countries they say "father," but they are far behind the age.

Few men are so awkward with tools that they cannot handle a cork-screw quite handily.

ANOTHER RAILROAD.

The California and Nevada Railroad has filed its articles of incorporation in San Francisco to construct a narrow-guage railroad from San Francisco to Bridgeport and Bodie, and then on to Dexter Wells. The Directors are John T. Davis, A. J. Rhodes, J. A. Reigart, M. Miller, B. B. Miner, Jas. McKingley and C. A. Livingtone, who have subscribed $250,000 toward the capital stock of $2,500,000. The road will be about 250 miles in length, and will come this way by way of Modesto, Sonora, the Calaveras Big Trees, and thence through Alpine county to Bridgeport, thence on to Bodie. This route will carry the road through a valuable section of country, timbered and mineral, which will furnish business for the road, which, in turn, will open up a mining section that cannot now be operated on account of a lack of shipping facilities. It will pass through a section richly timbered with the finest sugar pines to be found in the Sierras, and which can be utilized for the Bodie market, as well as the other markets. The passenger traffic will be great during the Summer months, as it must become the favorite route over the mountains, particularly to the tourist, who will find the scenery between the Big Trees of Calaveras and this place grand and awe inspiring.

This incorporation is the outcome of the visit of the Stocktonians who viewed the route last Summer, and visited this place and Bodie and obtained data upon which to base their calculations of the amount of business the road would probably control in this section. When these gentlemen left Bodie on their return home they assured us the road would be built at an early day, and this movement seems to be corroborative of their assurances in that respect. B. B. Miner, one of the D rectors, is largely interested in the Bodie mines. This route will bring this section 215 miles nearer San Francisco than by the route by way of Carson.

ACQUITTED.—The trial of young Kalloch for the murder of De Young has resulted in his acquittal—a result not unlooked for. It will be difficult to get a jury to convict a son for avenging a dastardly attempt to assassinate a father. De Young had for years invited assassination by his hellish hounding of every man that would not do his bidding, and acknowledge the power of the Chronicle, and the wonder is that he was not killed sooner.

The United States Court, at St. Louis, has decided that the Singer sewing machine patents have expired, and that any one can make the machines.

Governor Perkins has called an extra session of the Legislature, to meet April 4, and it is limited to 20 days.

THE CALIFORNIAN.—This magazine, like good wine, improves with age. The April number is a very interesting one. The Californian has now passed its novitiate, and is rapidly gaining in popular favor. Its contributors are among the ablest and best writers in the country, and it keeps abreast of the times. A gentleman of Mono county, who has been among the Boers, will shortly contribute an article on that country. It is published for $4 a year at 202 Sansome street, San Francisco.

VENUS.—To-morrow evening Venus will finish her course towards our globe, coming within 26,000,000 miles of it, having traveled 110,000,000 miles since last July. Upon this occasion she will appear in her best array and to-morrow night be the brightest. At midday it can be seen 40 degrees east of the sun.

It is thought the next U. S. Senator from Virginia will not be a Democrat, but will be elected to work in the Republican harness with Mahone.

NEW TO-DAY.

ALIAS SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT, IN AND FOR the County of Mono, State of California.

Action brought in the Superior Court, in and for the said County of Mono, State of California, and the complaint filed in the office of the Clerk of said County.

RICHARD S. MINER, Plaintiff's Attorney.

J. R. ABRAMS, Plaintiff, vs. PATRICK KANE, Defendant.

The People of the State of California send Greeting to Patrick Kane, Defendant:

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiff, in the Superior Court, in and for the said County of Mono, State of California, and to answer the Complaint filed therein, within ten days, exclusive of the day of service, after the service on you of this Summons, if served within this County; or, if served elsewhere, within thirty days.

The said action is brought to obtain a decree of this Court for the foreclosure of a certain mortgage described in the said complaint, and executed by the said Patrick Kane and Jane Kane, his wife, on the Twelfth day of July, 1880, to secure the payment of a certain promissory note made and executed by the said Patrick Kane and Jane Kane, on the said 12th day of July, 1880, for the sum of $334, with interest thereon at the rate of five per cent. per month from date until paid, and made payable to this plaintiff or order; that the premises conveyed by said mortgage may be sold, and the proceeds applied to the payment of said note and interest as stated in said promissory note; the sum of $29 85 taxes paid by said plaintiff on the land and premises described in said mortgage, and 20 per cent. on the amount found due for Attorney's fees, and also for costs of this suit, and in case such proceeds are not sufficient to pay the same, then to obtain an execution against said Patrick Kane and Jane Kane for the balance remaining due, and also that the said Defendants and all persons claiming by, through or under them, may be barred and foreclosed of all right, title, claim, lien, equity of redemption, and interest in and to said mortgaged premises, and for other and further relief, as will more fully appear by reference to the complaint on file herein.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint, as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief demanded in the said complaint.

Given under my hand and the seal of the Superior Court, in and for the said County of Mono, State of California, this 22d day of March, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNty of Mono, State of California.

In the matter of JAMES W. CROCKETT, an Insolvent Debtor.

James W. Crockett having filed in this Court his petition, schedule and inventory in insolvency, by which it appears that he is an Insolvent Debtor, the said James W. Crockett is hereby declared to be insolvent. The Sheriff of the said County of Mono is hereby directed to take possession of all the estate, real and personal, of the said James W. Crockett, debtor, except such as may be by law exempt from execution, and of all his deeds, vouchers, books of account, and papers, and to keep the same safely until the appointment of an assignee of his estate.

All persons are forbidden, to pay any debts to the the said insolvent, or to deliver any property belonging to him, or to any person, firm or corporation, or association for his use. The said debtor is hereby forbidden to transfer or deliver any property, until the further order of this Court, except as herein ordered.

It is further ordered, that all the Creditors of said debtor be and appear before the Honorable R. M. Briggs, Judge of the Superior Court of the said County of Mono, in open Court, at the Court Room of said Court, in the said County of Mono, on the 25th day of April, 1881, at 1 o'clock P. M. of that day, to prove their debts and choose one or more assignees of the estate of said debtor.

It is further ordered, that the order be published in the BRIDGEPORT CHRONICLE-UNION a newspaper of general circulation, published in the County of Mono, as often as the said paper is published, before the said day set for meeting of Creditors.

And it is further ordered, that in the meantime all proceedings against said insolvent be stayed.

Dated March 21st, 1881.

R. M. BRIGGS,
Judge of the Superior Court.

JOB PRINTING.—Job printing of the finest description will be furnished at this office at Sacramento prices.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

INSTALLED.—Department No. 1, of the Superior Court, Hon. R. M. Briggs, presiding, was formally installed in its new quarters in the new Court House on Wednesday morning last. Before opening Court for business, Judge Briggs, who looked twenty years younger in his new official home, addressed the members of the Bar, and the people—the Court room being full—and congratulated them on the transfer of the Temple of Justice from the old rattle-trap down town to its new and spacious quarters, and thought that all could attend to their business with the Courts and officers with a better grace than they could in the old Court House. He complimented the Board of Supervisors for their thoughtfulness, energy and good management in giving the county so magnificent a building at so small an outlay of the public moneys. He also paid a fitting compliment to the Architect, who conceived so fine an edifice, and the mechanics, who erected and finished it, and the people who have paid for it. The Judge's remarks were well conceived and delivered in his usual happy manner, the audience evincing its pleasure through timely applause. On behalf of the Bar, Hon. P. Reddy requested General Kittrell to lead off with a few "flowers and wreaths of eloquence," which the General did, favoring his hearers with an eloquent congratulatory address suitable to the occasion. At times the General waxed very eloquent; then dropping to "plain English," as he termed it, he got off some good hits at the Judge, Andy Allen and Judge Leavitt, our popular hotel keepers, and Hank Blanchard, Bodie's popular "Sunday School Superintendent." The General was frequently applauded. Mr. Reddy, who was unwell, made a few brief remarks, and he in turn was followed by Judge McQuaid, Judge Whitman, and District Attorney Parker, who "concurred" in all that had been said. It was a very pleasant little "love feast" over the completion of our new Court House, and after it was over the Judge opened the Court for the trial of Morton, indicted for stealing bullion from the Standard Consolidated.

A SUDDEN TERMINATION.—The trial of Morton, one of the Standard Con. bullion thieves, came to a sudden and unexpected close on Wednesday. The prosecution was conducted by the District Attorney and P. Reddy, attorney for the Standard Con.—After one or two witnesses had been examined, W. C. Haight, under indictment for the same offence, and who went before the Grand Jury and "gave away" his pals, was put on the stand. The prosecution depended on his testimony to convict their man, but Haight denied the truth of what he had told before the Grand Jury, and the prosecution had to throw up the case and consent to Morton's discharge. Mr. Reddy favored Haight with a good tongue-lashing for his perfidy. Morton was discharged, and Haight will be proceeded against for perjury.

PERSONAL.—Yesterday we had the pleasure of a call from Orlando E. Jones, publisher of the late Bentonian. This is his first visit to Bridgeport, and he is "taking it all in," and would probably have been able to purchase the town—new Court House included—had he have run a paper in Bodie, instead of Benton. We trust the "Bentonian man" will find a pleasant and thriving location in the agricultural portion of California, that we may be further enlightened on agricultural matters not yet touched upon by our friends of the Bodie Free Press, from which paper we have gleaned much valuable information regarding rotation in crops.

"MILLIONS IN IT."—General Kittrell, in his address upon the convening of the Superior Court in the new Court House, made a happy hit at "mine hosts" of the County Seat. He said that to Andy Allan and Judge Leavitt the ringing of the saw, the hammering of the nail, and the shoving of plane were more musical than the choristers around the White Throne above—for there were "millions in it."

GENEROUS.—Upon the acquittal of Morton, in the Superior Court, he remarked to the Court that he had been eight months in jail, and was destitute; whereupon the Hon. P. Reddy, prosecuting Attorney, quietly handed him a $20 piece. This is in keeping with his well-known generosity.

DECEASED.—James A Middlemiss, of the late firm of G. L. Porter & Co., of Bodie, died on the 6th inst. at his home, Allen's Corners, Lower Canada, aged 32 years.

GOOD BY!—Good by, old Court House! All we regret is that the juries which assembled within its dingy walls did not deal more even-handed justice.

FREIGHTS.—Teamsters offer to freight from Carson to Mill Creek at two cents until June 1st, and 1½ after that date. This will probably be lower than by railroad.

CRIMINAL TRIALS.—On next Monday week criminal trials will commence in the Superior Court, Department No. 1.

TO BODIE.—This morning Judge Briggs went to Bodie to attend to town-site business.

MONO'S NEW COURT HOUSE

This beautifully designed and well-constructed edifice is near completion, and will be accepted, on behalf of the county, by Architect J. R. Roberts, April 1st. A brief description of the main features of the edifice will serve to show the small expenditure, compared with similar structures, incurred in its erection. This imposing Court House in the main is seventy-four by eighty feet, including wings, it being in the form of a Greek cross, and is, in point of strength, and solidity of foundation, etc., one of the strongest. The main foundation walls and partition footings are of large flat-bedded rocks, at a depth of two feet in the ground and three feet base, well-grouted with liquid cement, with 1¼ inch iron anchors built in the same ten feet apart, by which the main wall sills, etc. are secured. The exterior masonry of the foundation to the height of thirty inches above ground, is composed of large blocks of cut granite, the work of Thomas Muckle & Brother, of Bodie, and it is strongly and neatly executed. The main wall sills are 8 by 10 inches, with corners and center wall posts of similar size, all well-tenoned and pinned to sills and plates. The studding for same is 2 by 8 inches, set 14 inches apart, diagonally braced and bridged with similar material. The exterior of wall studding, etc. throughout, is diagonally boarded with 1 by 10 inch boards laid close-jointed, and 1¼ inch redwood rustic laid on same. The interior of main walls, partitions, and ceilings are diagonally furred with 1 by 2 inch strips placed one foot from centers; lathed and three coats of plaster on same. The first and second story floor joists are 2 by 14 inches, set 14 inches apart, well-bridged and deafened between them. The floors are of 1¼ inch Oregon pine, tongued and grooved. The roof is well-constructed in proportion to the wall, etc.; the cords are 8 by 10 inches, and the straining beams 8 by 12 inches and braced proportionate; ceiling joists, rafters, etc., corresponding with the rest of the work. The gutters, valleys and conductors connected with the roof are of No. 24 galvanized iron, and are, with the roof, well-coated with metalic fire-proof paint. The main walls are forty feet in hight, from the front of which extends a magnificent cupulo, twenty-five feet high, surmounted by a 25-foot iron flagstaff.—The exterior finish, particularly the main front, has a very pleasing and artistic appearance, and the interior is not lacking in regard to its unsurpassed conveniences and appointments, as well as architectural beauties. At the main front entrance are two spacious vestibules, outer and inner, leading to hallways, ten feet wide, extending to the rear entrance. The side entrances are of a similar design, communicating with hallways of the same width, and connecting with main hallway. From the main hallway, at right angles, is staircase, ten feet wide, with a neat and massive newell-post, buttress string balusters and handrail, made of Spanish cedar. The first and second stories are each sixteen feet in the clear, in hight. The first comprises eight specious offices, two burglar and fire-proof vaults, storerooms and pumproom. The second is exclusively for Court purposes, comprising two Superior Rooms, each 32 by 40 feet; two Chambers, with closets; a room for attorneys, and two juryrooms, connecting with a hallway ten feet wide. The rooms are well-ventilated, and have an excellent water supply from a tank, on the roof, of 3000 gallon capacity, from which the fire hydrants, basins, etc. are supplied. The windows are exceedingly large and each is glazed with two French crystal sheet glass, supplied with inside white cedar blinds. The doors and window finish, counters, and Judges and Clerk's desks are designed and performed with excellent taste. The finish and mill work, about $7,000, were done at the Verdi Planing Mill, at Verdi, Nevada, after plans and details from the architect, and its work throughout has given general satisfaction. The brick work, plastering, cornices and center pieces are the work of McGee & Troy, of Reno, who exhibited great skill as master of their business. The painting and graining are by Smith and Crapp, of Bodie, who have sustained their well-earned reputation in that branch, the tinting, oak, ash, and walnut graining not being surpassed in the State, and they are worthy of more than a passing notice. The building is not excelled in its originality and magnificence—the work of John Reed Roberts, Architect and Superintendent of Construction. The design and faithful completion reflect great credit upon Mr. Roberts, and Mono's New Court House is a fitting monument of his genius. All the county officers will be quartered in this palace next week, and their transition from the miserable hovel of the old Court House will be as marked as from the bottomless pit to Heaven. The offices are arranged as follows: First floor—Clerk and Auditor, southeast corner; Recorder, rear of the Clerk's, and connecting with it by a hallway back of the Janitor's room, the entrance to this office is from the east hallway; Sheriff and Tax Collector, southwest corner; Treasurer, rear of, and connecting with the Sheriff's; entrance from the west hallway; District Attorney, northwest corner; entrance from west hallway; Assessor, adjoining District Attorney's; entrance from main hall; Attorney for the County, northeast corner; entrance from east hall; Supervisors, adjoining County Attorney's; entrance from main hall. Second floor—Superior Court, Department No. 1; east half of wing; Superior Court, Department No. 2; west half of wing: Chambers No. 1, southeast corner; Chambers No. 2, southwest corner; Jury, opposite stairway. The cost of this building is, in round figures, $31,000—gold coin in hand paid, the taxpayers nobly responding to high taxes for this purpose. Too much credit cannot be accorded the Board of Supervisors for its promptnes in responding to the petition of a majority of the taxpayers of Bodie and Bridgeport for a new Court House, also for its good management in its conception and execution. Of the $31,000, the county assumed $26,000, the balance falling upon the six bondsmen, who faithfully lived up to their obligations. The general sentiment is that they ought not be subjected to a private loss for a public service; that the forced expenditure of $5,000 more than the contract price, for the completion of a building devoted to public uses, upon which every dollar has been judiciously and economically bestowed, ought not be at the expense of public spirited and generous citizens, most of whom are the heaviest taxpayers in the county. We trust that the Board of Supervisors will respond to the wishes of the people and devise ways and means to reimburse them.

A GALA NIGHT.—Bridgeport was wide awake on Wednesday night last, some of our citizens having concluded to bury the old Court House, and accordingly a torch-light procession was formed, the line of march being to the old county chebang. The old Court room was quickly filled with those who were bent on having a good time. A meeting was organized by the appointment of one of our most distinguished citizens to the Chair, and a visiting "deacon," Chaplain. The Chair delivered a very humorous address over the defunct, and addresses were delivered by a number of distinguished members of the Bar, who knew the defuncted so well; and the Chaplain made his prayer. The festivities were kept up about two hours and a half, when the procession reformed, and bearing a dog kennel on a bier, and headed by music, paraded through town, visiting the residences of our prominent people, favoring them with cheers and music, the latter having become very wheezy when it reached the upper part of town. The procession visited the UNION office and gave three cheers for the "CHRONICLE-UNION, the pioneer press of Bridgeport," and three for the "Folger boys!" (yes, we are "boys,") for which compliments we touch our beavers. It was a late hour before the town became quiet; and thus ended the jubilee over the completion of the Court House.

HOME AGAIN.—HON. Marcus P. Wiggin, Judge of the Superior Court, Department No. 2, returned from the Western Slope yesterday. By order of the Governor he occupied the Superior Bench of Merced county during the past three months. The Judge was warmly welcomed by his many friends.

A COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE.—It is in contemplation by a joint stock company of wealthy Bridgeporters to establish a first-class educational institute in this town. Architect Roberts is preparing plans and specifications for a first-class building, both in design and appointments.

HOUSE AND FARM.

It has been found that grape-cuttings inserted in the trunk of the cacti on the desert grow and thrive as vigorously as in cultivated land. This fact is of great importance to the people. By the use of a chisel a man can plant a large vineyard in a day, and a vine so planted will climb the cactus and grow luxuriously without cultivation or irrigation. The dry, hot sands of the desert will afford a fine place for drying the raisins. In addition to grapes, it has been proven that melons, cucumbers and tomatoes will grow from the cactus stock, so that the desert may soon bloom as the rose."

Nothing speaks more favorably of a farmer's temper and self-control than to see him surrounded by animals which like him.—Farm hands should never be allowed to yell and scold at cows, horses, or any other beast; much less to ill-treat or whip them into obedience. With slow and gentle movement, a decided but mild voice, and above all, a never failing patience. All living beings are much better controlled than by harsh and despotic treatment.

Put your tongue to the larger end of the egg; if it feels warm it is fresh.

Crude petroleum is an excellent preservative covering, or paint for a fence.

"If this coffee is gotten up in boarding-house style again to-morrow morning, I think I shall have good grounds for a divorce," said a cross husband, the other morning. "I don't want any of your saucer," spouted his wife, "and what I've sediment."

Bad luck is a man with his hands in his breeches' pockets and a pipe in his mouth, looking on to see how it will come. Good luck is a man to meet difficulties, his sleeves rolled up and working to make it come right.

A boy is never so happy as when the family is moving, and he can walk through the streets to the new house wearing a chair on his head. That's the only way most boys can sit on a chair.

"If misfortune comes to a man's door what is he to do?" asked one friend of another. "Treat it pleasantly," was the reply, "and it will pass on; it can't abide agreeable company."

Trunk-makers are in league with the baggage-smashers. This is why the india-rubber trunk has never been invented for the purpose of giving the smasher the grand bounce.

Always add a line or two on the margin of a letter to a lady. You can't imagine how much satisfaction a woman obtains in turning a letter upside down to read a postscript.

A clever toy, of this season's invention, in London, is a musical top. It is spun in the ordinary way, and, while spinning, plays musical airs.

To protect one's self against the storms of life, marriage with a good woman is a harbor in the tempest; but with a bad one it is a tempest in the harbor.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY of Mono, State of California.

In the matter of JOHN P. GADIN, an Insolvent Debtor.

John B. Gadin having filed in this Court his petition, schedule, and inventory in Insolvency, by which it appears that he is an Insolvent Debtor, the said John B. Gadin is hereby declared to be insolvent. The Sheriff of the said County of Mono is hereby directed to take possession of all the estate, real and personal, of the said John B. Gadin, debtor, except such as may be by law exempt from execution, and of all his deeds, vouchers, books of account, and papers, and to keep the same safely until the appointment of an assignee of his estate.

All persons are forbidden to pay any debts to the said Insolvent, or to deliver any property belonging to him, or to any person, firm or corporation, or association for his use. The said Debtor is hereby forbidden to transfer or deliver any property, until the further order of this Court, except as herein ordered.

It is further ordered, that all the Creditors of said Debtor be and appear before the Honorable R. M. Briggs, Judge of the Superior Court of the said County of Mono, in open Court, at the Court Room of said Court, in the said County of Mono, on the 20th day of April, 1881, at 10 o'clock A. M., of that day, to prove their debts and choose one or more assignees of the estate of said Debtor.

It is further ordered, that the order be published in the BRIDGEPORT CHRONICLE-UNION, a newspaper of general circulation, published in the said County of Mono, as often as the said paper is published, before the said day set for the meeting of Creditors.

And it is further ordered, that, in the meantime, all proceedings against said Insolvent be stayed.

Dated March 16th, 1881.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY of Mono State of California.

In the matter of Michael J. Cody, an Insolvent Debtor.

M. J. Cody, having filed in this Court his petition, schedule, and inventory in Insolvency, by which it appears that he is an Insolvent Debtor, the said M. J. Cody is hereby declared to be insolvent. The Sheriff of the said County of Mono is hereby directed to take possession of all the estate, real and personal of the said M. J. Cody, insolvent debtor, except such as may be by law exempt from execution, and of all his deeds, vouchers, books of account, and papers, and to keep the same safely until the appointment of an assignee of his estate. All persons are forbidden to pay any debts to the said Insolvent, or to deliver any property belonging to him, or to any person, firm, or corporation, or association for his use. The said Debtor is hereby forbidden to transfer or deliver any property, until the further order of this Court, except as herein ordered.

It is further ordered, that all the Creditors of said Debtor be and appear before the Hon. R. M. Briggs, Judge of the Superior Court of the said County of Mono, in open Court, at the Court Room of said Court, in the said County of Mono, on the 20th day of APRIL, 1881, at 10 o'clock A. M., of that day, to prove their debts and choose one or more assignees of the estate of said Debtor.

It is further ordered, that the order be published in the BRIDGEPORT CHRONICLE-UNION, a newspaper of general circulation, published in the said County of Mono, as often as the said paper is published, before the said day set for the meeting of Creditors.

And it is further ordered, that, in the meantime, all proceedings against the said Insolvent be stayed.

Dated March 16th, 1881.

R. M. BRIGGS,
Judge of the Superior Court.
